

New young adult fiction books in January: Updated February 6, 2006

- Peeps, by Scott Westerfeld. When Cal Thompson spends the night with a mysterious woman, he becomes infected with a parasite, he starts to hate sunlight, form bonds with rats, and crave human-blood.
- All Rivers Flow to the Sea, by Alison McGhee. A winter night in the Adirondacks. A curve in the road. A blue truck. Again and again, Rose relives the collision that left her older sister Ivy in a coma and left Rose paralyzed by memories.
- Keeper, by Mal Peet. El Gato's story: learn how an unspectacular teenager in a poor logging town becomes the world's most accomplished soccer goalkeeper.